Yahoo! announced an upcoming mobile app today at the Mobile World Congress in Spain - oneConnect. The major appeal of this application is its ability to consolidate just about every IM and social network into one place.

Users will be able to send messages to contacts across a wide variety of sites including Facebook and Myspace as well as IM clients, including AIM and gTalk. Most importantly, oneConnect will save text and IM messages as a single thread, regardless of which site or program

Forbes ranked Boulder, CO #1 on its list of the 25 smartest cities in America.

One of these sought-after settings is Boulder, Colo., the city claiming the top spot in our rankings. Boulder is a draw for many reasons, but undeniably because so much of its population is a result of the University of Colorado. But Boulder also has a draw outside the university. As far as environmental awareness Lucasfilm is releasing an all-new feature-length animated film to theatres on August 15, 2008 - Star Wars: The Clone Wars!

Pardon my Vince Vaughnery, but I couldn't help feel nostalgic after running across this great image of classic Nintendo character evolution!

each person is communicating through.

This is extremely useful in that it allows friends, colleagues, or whoever to keep track of conversations that would normally be spread across multiple sources in one, easy to keep track of application. Not only will communication be consolidated, but the mobile app will also converge updates from all of these individual services.

As a user of Facebook, LinkedIn, AIM, gTalk, and sometimes other social and communications tools, oneConnect sounds like a (mobile) dream come true. (via TechCrunch) goes, Boulder is one of the greenest cities in the United States, and the residents take advantage of the many outdoor recreational activities available to the students, professors and overwhelmingly young adult population.

A proud moment for University of Colorado alumni everywhere and another list-topping performance for the Buffs!

Pink Floyd is one of my all-time favorite bands. From their groundbreaking first album in 1967, The Piper At the Gates of Dawn, to Meddle, The Dark Side of the Moon, Wish You Were Here, Animals, The Wall and so on, they have amassed quite an impressive catalog (14 official releases to be exact) over the years.

Not to be outdone in the new digital age, Pink Floyd has created quite an impressive interactive ad/site for their latest release, a box set entitled Oh, By The Way.

And if the cloud bursts, thunder in your ear

You shout and no one seems to hear. And if the band you're in starts playing different tunes

I'll see you on the dark side of the moon.
